Introduction to FIS Style Guide

The following is a guide to preferred use of language and terminology by the International Ski Federation (FIS). It also provides guidance to preferred spelling and style. This guide is intended to be used for all documents, correspondence and publications. It is aimed at FIS staff and the extended FIS family, the National Ski Associations, Organisers and other associated groups in order to achieve a common approach to terminology. The consistency and professionalism of written content produced by all stakeholders determines how the public views our sport and plays an important role in ensuring a consistent image of FIS.

The FIS Style Guide covers the three official FIS languages in order to serve the FIS Family around the world. Content in the Guide is not necessarily a matter of correct or incorrect grammar but rather reflects the FIS preferred usage in order to maintain consistency within the organisation. It does not follow any particular industry style guide but serves as a roadmap for FIS to help present a professional image of our organisation to the outside world.

Why is the FIS Style Guide important to you?

³⁵₁₇ Everyone at FIS writes!

³⁵₁₇ Everyone is responsible for upholding a consistent image of the organisation

³⁵₁₇ Everyone can contribute to consistency

How to use the Guide?

³⁵₁₇ Read it!

³⁵₁₇ Keep it handy!

³⁵₁₇ Help educate others!

What if you disagree?

³⁵₁₇ Style is always a matter of discussion

³⁵₁₇ If you disagree with a particular point, do contact us at communications@fisski.com for future consideration.

General notes

FIS prefers the use of British-English spelling (e.g. organising, programme, medallist, cancellation, etc.) but accepts the use of American English (e.g. organizing, program, medalist, cancelation, etc.) provided that only one of the two is used in any single document or piece of content.

A few notes on capitalisation: In English and French, capitalisation is reserved for the first word of every sentences and formal nouns (name words) as well as certain FIS terminology as outlined in this Guide. In general, capitals should be used with care and all capitals should be used for accepted abbreviations only. Capital letters or underlining should also not be used for emphasis. For emphasis, italics is the preferred means.

For umlauts or accents, local use is preferred, i.e. Sölden and Kitzbühel rather than Soelden and Kitzbuehel.

FIS organisational reference

English	Deutsch	Français
International Ski Federation	Internationaler Ski Verband	Fédération Internationale de Ski

Abbreviated in all languages as FIS and fully capitalised as often pronounced as single letters F-I-S.

Please note: Do not include “the” in front of FIS when referring to FIS as a noun or as a modifier in English. E.g. FIS is the international governing body of skiing. FIS staff hail from a number of different countries.

Im Deutschen verwendet man den Artikel für ‘die FIS’ oder für ‘der Internationale Ski Verband’ (bitte beachten, es besteht aus drei (3) Wörtern!)

En français, on doit utiliser l’article ‘la’ avant l’acronyme FIS.

FIS Olympic disciplines

According to FIS preferred terminology, there are 'competitions' in the various 'events' under each FIS discipline. The FIS Congress has approved the use by FIS of the IOC terminology by which the sport of skiing includes six Olympic disciplines and three non-Olympic disciplines. Each discipline encompasses events (not disciplines), such as slalom or ski cross. The FIS World Cup series stage competitions and maintain rankings for these events.

Unlike the names of the individual events, the FIS disciplines are capitalised in all languages when reference is made to the discipline as such, as follows:

CC	Cross-Country Skiing	(Ski)Langlauf (m.)	Ski de Fond
JP	Ski Jumping note: Ski Flying = 2 words	Skispringen (n.) Skifliegen (n.)	Saut à Ski (Saut) Vol à Ski
NC	Nordic Combined	Nordische Kombination (f.)	Combiné Nordique

GS	Grass Skiing	Grasski	Ski sur Herbe
TM	Telemark Skiing	Telemark	Télémark (aussi Telemark)
MA	Masters	Masters	Masters

Olympic Games

Olympic as a word is always capitalised. The proper use for FIS follows that of the IOC. Correct usage is Olympic Winter Games, not Winter Olympic Games or Olympics! On second use, Games/Spiele/Jeux is acceptable:

OWG	Olympic Winter Games	Olympische Winterspiele (f.)	Jeux Olympiques d'Hiver
OSG	Olympic Summer Games	Olympische Sommerspiele (f.)	Jeux Olympiques d'Été
YOG	Youth Olympic Games	Olympische Jugendspiele (f.)	Jeux Olympiques de la Jeunesse

Dates and numbers

Numbers in text are spelt out from one through nine; use digits for 10 and above. This rule also applies to where an athlete is placed. There are two exceptions: when describing a top-x placement (i.e. It was his first top 3 finish.) or when using numbers to refer to a distance (He took fifth in the 5 km distance race.)

Units of measurement

Do not use a hyphen or space when using abbreviations of units of measurement. Always lower case. Separate the unit of measurement from the number with a space and when necessary for clarity, spell out the unit.

5 km	5 km	5 km
2,000 m(etres)	2.000 m	2 000 m
23.2%	23,2%	23,2%

Time

Use 24-hour clock e.g. 13:00 (with a colon) and where necessary, reference to the time zone such as CET/MEZ.

Miscellaneous

crystal globe (Do not capitalise)	Kristallkugel	globe de crystal (m)
men's winner (Do not capitalise men's!)	Sieger (Herren)	vainqueur (m)
ladies' winner (Do not capitalise ladies'!)	Siegerin (Damen)	vainqueur (m) championne (f) or champion (m) Note: only when it's a title event but not for a World Cup competition!

female athlete	Athletin	athlète féminine
ladies (not capitalised) FIS preferred use is ladies, not women although IOC uses women in the Info+ and ORIS	Damen	Dames
men (not capitalised)	Herren	Homes

Note: FIS is an "it" not "they". The same rules apply to IFs, NSAs, etc. (e.g. FIS is located in Oberhofen.)

However, when writing about FIS, always use third person voice not first person. Correct: FIS promotes the sport of skiing in all its facets. Incorrect: We promote the sport of skiing in all its facets.

Use of hyphen

FIS style is to add prefixes such as "mid", "pre" and "post" with a hyphen.

Do not use hyphens in distance measurements and avoid the use of hyphens or double hyphens to separate a thought (use an em-dash instead, that is a large dash).
